

The Philosophy
Foundation
THINKING CHANGES

Slowberries

Listen:

<https://bit.ly/2TnfTD4>

Have a listen to the story and answer the questions below.

Would you eat slowberries? What do you think life would be like for you? Is it any different from before?

Imagine: One of the people who gave up then starts going around telling people to stop eating slowberries. Not everyone is happy about it.

If you liked thinking about this, why not contact kim@philosophy-foundation.org for further information on joining online philosophy sessions or Q&As with a philosopher.

Should we stop eating slowberries? Should we stop others eating slowberries?

“My parents tell me that I’m not allowed to eat certain things because they are bad for me.” Who is responsible for your health? The Government? Teachers? Your parents/guardians? You?

If you liked thinking about this, why not contact kim@philosophy-foundation.org for further information on joining online philosophy sessions or Q&As with a philosopher.

Would / Should you eat the following? Put a tick next to those you would and a cross next to those you wouldn't.

- Vegetables
- Petrol
- Sugar
- Chocolate
- Alcohol
- Something that looks nice, but you don't know what it is
- Something that looks disgusting if someone you trust tells you it is delicious?
- Snails
- Meat

Give your reasons below for one where you've ticked and one where you've put a cross. Why not compare your list and reasons with someone else?

If you liked thinking about this, why not contact kim@philosophy-foundation.org for further information on joining online philosophy sessions or Q&As with a philosopher.